Our lecturer, Bob Collins, is a native of Springfield, Delaware Co. who earned his Bachelors & Masters degrees in Civil Engineering from Villanova University. We all know that except for the Native Americans, all of us are descendants of someone who came to America from somewhere else. During this fascinating talk, learn about ten various groups of immigrants; who they were, where they came from, how they got here, where they settled, what they did after arriving & also how they handled the problems they encountered ! Bob identifies notable immigrants &/or descendants from each of these 10 different groups.

His lecture, "A Condensed History of the Fire Service" traces the development of fire service from bucket brigades to diesel engines. Interesting Middletown Twp volunteer fire company history !
